□研究の取組み

As I am a lawyer and member of the California State Bar Association, my research on American Law and International Business Transactions tends to focus on practical and topical issues, including dispute resolution, contracts, and the jury system.

I have been researching the law, legal systems, business practices and cultures of different jurisdictions and the relationships among them. I am also interested in the legal changes that have resulted from globalization and changes in the world order, especially in the emerging market economies, the former emerging market economies and developing countries.

The information I learn from my research is used to educate students in a practical way to prepare them for their future jobs and everyday lives in society.
